Delta State

Linda Ross

The Broom staff is proud to dedicate the 2010 annual to Linda Ross. Ross has served the Delta State community for the past 30 years. Ross began work at Delta State in June 1979 as secretary for H.L. Nawell, who was then Director of the Union. She has served as the Coordinator of the University Calendar and currently is the Director of the H.L. Nawell Union. She graduated from Delta State with her Bachelor's degree in Education and her Master's in Counseling. Ross's dedication goes past the regular 8-5 weekday job; serving some nights and weekends at conventions, conferences, and workshops as an advisor of Student Government Association, Union Program Council, and Pageant Board, Ross is a true student affair professional. She will go to any length to aid any student or student organization in achieving goals. Over her career here at DSU she has sought out and groomed some of our recent and future community leaders. Davlon Miller speaks highly of Ross, "As a future student affairs professional, I have learned from Linda how to cultivate and motivate students to excellence. Aside from being a professional mentor to me, Linda has been a mom away from mom and a great friend. She has played a significant role in the development of my future as well as the futures of the many students that have passed through her office doors."

Graduation

82nd Commencement

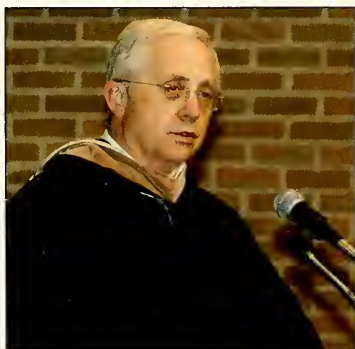

[by Claire Gore]

Delta State University held its 82nd commencement on May 9, 2009. The spring commencement exercises awarded 477 degrees—two doctoral degrees, nine educational specialist degrees, 126 master's degrees, and 340 bachelor's degrees. The keynote speaker for the ceremony was Aubrey Patterson, a member of the Mississippi Institutions of Higher Learning Board of Trustees. Patterson encouraged the graduates that the key to becoming a world-leading economic power in a high-tech world is education, but saying that education is a priority is not enough. As Americans, we have to make the needed resources available for our future generations to keep them at the top of the world's leading economy.

Also during the commencement, President John Hilpert hooded Dr. Robert L. Elliott, presenting him with the university's highest honor—an honorary Doctor of Science degree. Delta State extends these honorary degrees to individuals who have made noteworthy and commendable contributions to the university. Dr. Elliott, along with his wife Dr. Mary Elliott, started the Elliott Program of Excellence for undergraduates here at Delta State. This program allows researchers, faculty, and students to come together to explore the advances being made in science. This program embraces three different areas: The Elliott-Nowell-White Symposium, Research Fellowship Program, and the Elliott Scholars Program. With this program, Elliott wants to "light a fire in today's students in the same manner that a fire was lit in me by those who influenced my life when I was a student here at Delta State University." Elliott told the graduates to be proud of their degrees, and that they could compete with the best from anywhere.

Three first diplomas were awarded at this commencement, given to the four-year graduating senior with the highest grade point average on a minimum of 112 hours of academic credit at Delta State: Jonathan Wesley Bastick Wamble, Justin Andrew Owen and Laura Kathryn Kinnison.

Two second diplomas were awarded, and these are given to a two-year graduating senior with the highest grade point average on a minimum of 62 hours of academic credit at Delta State. Tracy Elizabeth Peyton and Nicholas P. Johnson.

Hall of Fame

Highest Honor at Delta State

The Delta State University Hall of Fame was established in 1972 to give recognition to those students who demonstrate outstanding achievements in all their college endeavors. The students inducted into the Hall of Fame reflect excellence in various areas of student life, such as academics, athletics, service, leadership, Greek life, and overall involvement at Delta State. It is the highest honor bestowed upon any student at Delta State. Being inducted into the Hall of Fame sums up a student's hard work and dedication and groups them with other students who have the same goal and aspiration of greatness. The inductees are honored the night before graduation with a banquet to congratulate them on their hard work that they have displayed throughout their time at Delta State.

Student Government Association

Officers of Delta State

Delta State's Student Government Association plays an important role on campus. The Executive Cabinet consists of six elected officials, as well as 12 appointed directors. These 18 students work together to better the campus and make Delta State a place for everyone. One of the main tasks of the SGA is to get students involved on campus. Campus cleanups, Constitution week, and Homecoming week are only a few of the many programs that the SGA sponsors. The SGA allows its officers to showcase their leadership skills through leading our campus in becoming more involved in every aspect of Delta State. The President of SGA is the Chief Executive Officer and is the official representative of the Delta State student body. The Vice President serves as the President of the Senate and is given the duty of keeping the constitution and election code current. The Treasurer is responsible for all SGA funds and the monthly financial account of all budgets, in addition to submitting this information to the cabinet and assisting in the preparation of all budgets. The Secretary is to keep accurate minutes of cabinet and senate meetings and to keep an up-to-date list of official SGA correspondence. The Attorney General must ensure that student's rights are protected through due process and shall serve as commissioner of election. The Chief Justice, whose main concern is to uphold the dignity of the court, is the presiding justice.

Brown Bag Luncheon

A Delta State tradition

[by Claire Gorel]

On Wednesday, February 25, 2009, Delta State took a group of 35 students to the capital in Jackson to meet and converse with the state's legislators and to watch from the upstairs House gallery and listen to the discussions the legislators had while in session. This tradition of Delta State's has continued since the 1980s. Linda Ross, the Student Government Association advisor, describes Brown bag, "a day when a group of students go to the capital to talk to the legislators and tell them about Delta State's needs." Delta State students are given the chance to apply to attend this event and most of those who apply get accepted and participate. The students bring lunch for the legislators and converse with them one-on-one. This year at Brown Bag approximately 70 legislators came to speak with the students. The main purpose of this day is for students to lobby the legislators so they will know the needs of the students and know what is important for them to continue their education. During this time of economic crunch, the students told the legislators of their need for supplies, tuition, and building funds; they also asked about where the money allotted to Delta State has gone. As Ross stated, "Who better than a student can tell a legislator what they need? The legislators are going to listen to the voters who put them in office." Delta State University is one of only a few universities that still participates in Brown Bag, and it has shown its successes through years. This is a great opportunity for students' voices to be heard and for legislators to connect to the generation that is the future of this country.

Orientation

Wheel of Fortune

(by Courtney Smith)

Each year, a group of enthusiastic students gather for Orientation to teach incoming students about the past and present of Delta State. This year, the theme "Wheel of Fortune" was chosen in hopes of teaching the incoming students in a fun way. Just like the game show it was modeled after, there was a wheel at the front of the auditorium that both students and parents could spin. Brittany Scruggs, a freshman that attended orientation this year, stated, "The game answered many questions that I had about the school. I found it to be very fun and helpful."

Many other events were also planned for the students to become comfortable with the campus and make new friends. After a day of getting to know Delta State, the incoming students attended a dance in DSU's very own Union. Lara Ault, a freshman on campus, stated, "I found it to be a great way to get to know people, going into a school where I hardly knew anyone. I'm so glad I went." The 2008 Orientation team included: student director Casey Harlow, student director Katie Morrison, Drew Luckett, Megan Frazier, Meri Whitney Ziemann, Paul Sabbatini, Tara Dunn, Abby Red, Deniger Cobb, Beka Alford, Ashley Neal, Alyce Meador, and Emily Hearn.

When asked what she likes about Delta State, she replied, "I love DSU because it is small and reminds me of home. I have always felt a strong sense of support and received help when needed. Also, the students at Delta State are friendly and easy to talk to. If I had the chance to start over and pick another school, I would still pick DSU."

Sabbatini is an athletic training major from Clarksdale. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, where he is nationally ranked as a Garnet and Gold level member. Sabbatini is also a member of the Intra Fraternity Council, Sports Medicine Society, Catholic Student Association, Omicron Kappa Delta National Honor Society, and Order of Omega. "Remember My Name"

50 Years of Miss Delta State University

Lacey Mixon

[by Mercedes Patterson]

The 2010 Miss Delta State University Pageant, presented by the Student Government Association on January 22, 2009, was entitled "Remember My Name." With the hard work of the pageant board and under the guidance of Executive Director Linda Ross, the Miss DSU Pageant celebrated its 50th year on the campus of Delta State. The three contestants vying for the coveted title and crown competed in a swimsuit, talent, and evening wear and on-stage question competition, as well as a preliminary interview with the judges. The three contestants were Coriss Watson, a Music Education major from Grenada; Mary Mac Drake, an Interdisciplinary Studies Delta Music Institute major from Port Gibson; and Lacey Mixon, a Nursing major from Brandon. The title of Miss Delta State University and opportunity to represent DSU at the Miss Mississippi pageant was awarded to Lacey Mixon.

Most Beautiful Pageant

[by Claire Gare]

There is only one place to find 30 beautiful women all dressed up waiting for their name to be called: Delta State's Most Beautiful Pageant. Delta State's annual Most Beautiful Pageant was held on October 29. This production is sponsored by the Student Government Association and put on by Delta State's Pageant Board. Each girl competing in the pageant goes through an interview process with all three judges and the evening gown competition. While the judges narrow down the competition to the top ten finalists to present awards for Most Photogenic, Most Beautiful, and the Beauties and the crowd is on the edge of their seats, entertainment is offered to calm their senses. The awards were announced and the winners were: Most Photogenic went to Holley Peel, a junior at Greenwood; the beauties were Kayla Murphy, a freshman Pre-Nursing major of Hernando; De'Lisha Wiggins, a junior Nursing major of Vicksburg; Megan Frazier, a junior Dietetics and Nutrition major of Grenada; and, Rebecca Bailey, a sophomore Graphic Design major of Pearl. Most Beautiful went to Lindsey Redden, a junior Nursing major from Cleveland. Dr. James Robinson served as the pageant musician for the evening gown competition to round out the evening.

Greek Week

No Matter the Letter, We are All Greek Together

[by Mercedes Patterson]

Each year, a weeklong event promoting friendship and unity among all the Greek chapters of Delta State University is hosted by the Panhellenic, Pan-Hellenic, and Interfraternity Councils. To begin the week, each organization designed a display board to represent their chapters and put them on show in front of the Student Union. Upon judging, the winners for the best display were Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity and Kappa Delta Sorority. Students burst into action by playing games on the Quad, including a three-legged race, hula hoop pass, tug-of-war, and a water balloon toss. The most anticipated contest of the week was the annual multicultural step show held in the gym. Each sorority and fraternity paired with their brother and sister chapters and competed to be named the best. The champions were Phi Mu Fraternity and Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia.

To conclude the week, a banquet was held to honor the best of the Greek system. The award for Greek Man of the Year, for IFC, was awarded to Drew Barham of Kappa Alpha Order, and, for Pan-Hellenic, Tim James-Johnson of Phi Beta Sigma was honored. Pan-Hellenic Greek Woman of the Year Award went to Tara Dunn of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, and for Panhellenic Council, Kelli Dauglass of Delta Delta Delta Sorority received the award. The most coveted title for the Pan-Hellenic chapters, Fraternity and Sorority of the Year, was given to Phi Beta Sigma and Alpha Kappa Alpha. The H.L. Nowell and Carol Brumby Award are given to the fraternity and sorority who excel among their peers in all aspects of philanthropy, campus involvement, and academics. Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity and Kappa Delta received these enviable achievements as well as others.

Springfest

Annual Day of Fun

[by Claire Gore]

April 22nd and 23rd brought two days full of sun for Delta State's annual Spring Fest, an event many students look forward to all spring semester. In years past, Spring Fest has been one day, but this year it was spread out into two days to give students some additional entertainment. The Union Program Council sponsors this event every year and no matter the weather, the turnout is great. On Wednesday, LaserTron was set up on the Quad for students from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Delta State's students filled the Quad that Thursday from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

to get a break from their hectic schedules before finals. This year proved to be no different. Many attractions that have served as staples in past Spring Fests returned this year, like the wax hand molding. While most of the attractions were held on the Quad, a few attractions were held by the Alumni clock in front of Ward Hall and on the street in front of the Quad. One of the biggest hits this year was the sign-making booth that boasted a line out to the street. The zip line, bungee run, bumper cars, human spheres, key chains, and great food showcased at Spring Fest. The Delta Music Institute had Delta Rox and Ol' Skool Revue fill the air with excellent music from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Organizations all over campus came out and supported this event, bringing in one of the biggest crowds to date and providing something for every student.

Welcome Week

An Eventful-Fun Week

[by Katelyn Hulett]

This year's Welcome Week, held from August 24-27, 2009, seemed to be a great success on campus. It was a week full of various, free activities open to all students. The week started off in the Aquatics Center parking lot for a foam dance party with an attendance of an estimated 550 students from 9-11 p.m. D.J. Lott pumped up the party with many new tunes, such as "The Stanky Leg" and "Cupid's Shuffle." Then on Tuesday, an artist came to draw with charcoal the back sides of students, called butt sketches. These sketches drew a crowd of about 100 students in the Union from 2-4 p.m. That night the President of DSU hosted the freshmen ice cream social, providing a time for new students to meet the president one-on-one and get to know their classmates.

Wednesday held the Career Fair on the east side of the Union to help students find suitable majors and a career to follow that major. Omicron Delta Kappa held an Organization Fair that had booths in the Union for students to learn about organizations on campus. That night at 9 p.m., the movie "Next Day Air" was shown in the Bologna Performing Arts Center. Welcome Week came to an end on Thursday with a Nascar simulator on the Quad. Each student that participated got to sit inside the renovated Nascar and play the Playstation Nascar game or even change the tire. Austin Childress, Student Director of the Union, comments on welcome week, "It is a time for all the students to come out and meet new people and have a good time before classes pick up."

(above) The foam dance party was the biggest attraction it has been to date.

Pig Pickin'

Events Marking the First Home Football Game

[by Claire Gore]

The week of long rain and a muddy Statesmen's Park couldn't stop the fun at the 24th annual Pig Pickin' on September 19. An event that no one wanted to miss, this year's Pig Pickin' attracted over 3,000 DSU alumni, community members, and students to enjoy its festivities.

"Any time we bring thousands of alumni and friends to Delta State for such a positive experience, it is good for the university," stated Jeffery Farris. In years past, Pig Pickin' was a two-day event beginning on Friday night with some form of entertainment. Due to the rain and muddy ground, there wasn't a Friday night event, but students and the local cooking teams filled Statesmen's Park that evening to get ready for the many activities scheduled for Saturday, ranging from the Triathlon, cooking contests, and the first home game of the season.

The Triathlon was a great success with Krista Davis winning for the women and Joey Lee winning for the men.

Everyone looked forward to the cooking contest, as well. More cooking teams than ever showed up this year to enter their best barbeque for the chance of winning 'Grand Champion.' The winners this year were: Shine Ponjetti for Best T-shirt/Apron; Some Pig for Best Booth; the Riverside Smokers for Best Sausage and Best Boston Butt; and Levee Side Smokers for the Best Chicken. The Grand Champion of the day was Lott-a-Backyard Pit Bosses.

DM's Ol' Skool Revue held a concert from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., followed by a pep rally by Delta State's cheerleaders at 3:30. The game began at 6, and Delta State brought home a win. Statesmen beat Harding University's Bisons 48-10, ending another great Pig Pickin'.

Homecoming

[by Courtney Smith]

This year's Homecoming festivities were held on November 2 and extended to November 7. To kick off the theme of "Veni Vidi Vici" – We Came, We Saw, We Conquered – a tent was set up on Delta State's Quad on Monday where students could play loser tag from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. On Tuesday, the "Olympic Games" took place. Games such as the wheelbarrow race, tug-of-war, three-legged race, and crab walk were played. On Wednesday, many sororities and fraternities participated in DSU's Lipsync Competition. Each group was given a five-minute time limit to show us their spin on a compilation of songs. On Thursday, the Greekfest and Cookout Contest were held. The fraternities and sororities set up tents on the Quad and brought different foods such as poppyseed chicken, potato salad, and jumbalia for all to enjoy. Everyone mixed and mingled as live music was played. On Friday, the parade was held – starting at Kent Wyatt Hall, going through campus, downtown, and coming back to the school. Sororities and fraternities were dressed in togas and matching t-shirts as they walked by their float. All these events led up to Saturday, when Delta State played West Georgia. During half-time of the game, Tara Dunn was crowned Homecoming Queen. Delta State defeated West Georgia – 48 to 7 – giving Homecoming week a very nice ending.

Fall Graduation

83rd Commencement

[by Claire Gore]

Delta State University held its 83rd Commencement December 12, 2009, in Walter Sillers Coliseum. This commencement honored 342 graduates, with degrees ranging from doctoral degrees and educational specialist degrees to bachelor's degrees from the College of Business, College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Education and the School of Nursing. Our University President, Dr. John Hilpert, began the service with congratulating the graduates for achieving such a momentous milestone in their lives. The long-standing tradition Delta State started is to allow the recipient of the S.E. Kossman Outstanding Faculty Award to be the keynote speaker during the Fall Commencement. This year Lisa Sandifer, the 27th recipient of this award, spoke to the Fall 2009 graduates. Sandifer is a licensed Certified Public Accountant and is also in her 12th year of teaching accounting at Delta State. Her address to the graduates was titled "Lessons I Learned from 'The Blind Side'." Through this speech came forth wisdom and advice on how to be generous, to be all you can be, and to be thankful. "We can be generous with our hearts, our talents, our time, and our financial resources," said Sandifer. She said to be generous with our hearts, that there will be people in our lives that will need a person to lean on and for us to be that person. Be the type of person to open your heart to others. While promoting the idea of being all you can, Sandifer told a story of former Delta State swimmer, Jennifer Artichuk, who balanced a rigorous training schedule with academic excellence. Swim practice before class, going to class, going back to swim practice, and then finding time to fit every other activity into the day is a hard task. Being nominated as one of NCAA student athletes of the year because of her excellence in academics, athletics, service, and leadership, Sandifer stated, "That is being all you can be." One of Sandifer's last pieces of wisdom was to be thankful. "Be thankful for your education. Be thankful for your friends, family, and mentors here at Delta State." She told all the graduates to remember that Delta State is a university that cares about you, not just while you are enrolled, but after you have taken that first step out on your own.

Delta State awarded its First Diploma with the highest grade point average for a four-year student to Heather Palmertree of Courtland. She graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Education degree with her major being Elementary Education. The Second Diploma was awarded to the two-year graduate with the highest grade point average, Jessica Shannon of Clarksdale. She graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree with her major being foreign language with a concentration in Spanish.

Rabbit Hole

[by Claire Garel]

Delta State's fall production was David Lindsay-Abaire's heartrending "Rabbit Hole." This play won a Pulitzer Prize in Drama in 2007. Theatre Arts Department and Communication Studies in the Division of Languages and Literature were the ones putting on this award-winning production. The cast included Delta State students as well as members from the community. The five-person cast was comprised of Jamie Jacks, of Cleveland, playing Becca; Andy Howell, of Grenada, playing Howie; Amber Roy, of San Antonio, Texas, playing Izzy; Beth Jacks, of Cleveland, playing Nat; and Cory Vanlandingham, of Grenada, playing Jason. The director of this production was Dr. Nancy Clark. This play centers on a couple, Becca and Howie, and Becca's sister, Izzy, and her mother, Nat. Rebecca and Howie have recently lost their son, Danny, when he ran out into the road while chasing the family dog eight months earlier. The whole family is trying to find their way back to what they believe is normal, when Izzy, the troublemaker, announces she is pregnant. Becca, Howie, and Nat must now deal with their tragedy and a new life on the way. Jason, the one who was also involved in the accident that killed Danny, comes to visit Becca in the final act. He has written a story that he believes will help Becca come to terms with all that has taken place. The story tells of alternate realities in which those who die live on elsewhere. This story helps Becca realize that it is time for the family to move on and that Danny is where he is supposed to be. The play portrays a family in mourning and how they overcome new obstacles amidst this mourning. This play shows how people deal with grief, individually and with others.

Izzy, played by Amber Roy, blows out her birthday candles as Nat (Beth Jacks) and Becca (Jamie Jacks) help celebrate.

Andy Howell and Jamie Jacks play Hawie and Becca, a couple learning to cope with the loss of their son.

Amber Roy plays Izzy, a smart-aleck girl in her mid-twenties who is learning to deal with not only the loss of her nephew but also the addition of her own child.

Alumnus of the Year

Billy Nowell

[by Claire Garel]

Growing up in Cleveland allows for a more direct tie to Delta State, especially for Billy Nowell, 2009 Alumnus of the Year. Throughout Nowell's life, he has always been a supporter of Delta State, beginning with his love for watching basketball and football. He graduated from Cleveland High School and then joined the Delta State campus where he made his mark. While on campus, he was Kappa Alpha Order president, a member of the golf team, Inter-Fraternity Council president, class president, Student Government Association vice president, and Mr. Delta State University. Nowell graduated in 1972 with a degree in business administration.

Even after graduation, Delta State still held a place in his heart, and he still greatly supports all of Delta State's endeavors. He is a member of the Booster Club, the Bologna Performing Arts Center, and a life member of the Alumni Association. His greatest impact thus far to Delta State has been his service on the Foundation Board for the last twenty years. Nowell, after graduation, settled into the family's lumber business and became an active member of the community. His involvements include the Rotary Club, the Cleveland-Bolivar County Chamber of Commerce, First United Methodist Church, Board of Directors for the Bolivar County Community Action Program, and Cleveland School District Mentor Program.

Through all his volunteer efforts for Delta State and the Cleveland community, Nowell has still had time to make a name for himself in the political world. In 2009, Billy Nowell became Mayor of Cleveland. One of Nowell's main priorities as mayor is to further enhance the partnership between Delta State and the Cleveland community. According to Nowell, "You can't imagine one without the other. The success of each is essential to both." Delta State President John Hilpert says that "his involvement in the day-to-day life of the Delta makes him an invaluable source of information and advice." Above all, Nowell is a generous and dedicated man that shows his passion for this community in everything he does.

Recruiting

Each year Admissions Recruiters at Delta State University log thousands of miles in travel while recruiting new and transfer students to the Delta. The six recruiters span the state as well as surrounding areas to show future collegians all the immense opportunities available at DSU. From the Mississippi coast to the Tennessee border admissions recruiters, along with the help from the outstanding admissions office staff, represents the best of DSU at college fairs, high schools, and community colleges. On campus, a group of undergraduates known as the Delta Diplomats work each week in welcoming visiting students and their families to the beautiful DSU Campus. The Diplomats give tours of campus all its buildings, as well as offer meetings with professors. Only from the perspectives of these current undergrads can a future Statesmen see the experience of a lifetime waiting for them at Delta State.

Trends

[by Courtney Smith]

This year has been one for turning our swag on, just dancing, and people seeing our halo. All of us bought something plaid this year (shirt, shorts, skirt, etc). If we didn't, we were probably satisfied to wear a large polo t-shirt over Nike shorts or skinny jeans with a v-neck shirt. If we didn't feel like putting in our contacts one morning, we could sport our black-rimmed glasses to class. Our summer look brought back a simple, hippie feel. It consisted of rolled blue jeans, large t-shirts, and strappy flip-flips (chacos). To accessorize, we used large sunglasses, simple necklaces, bangles, peace signs, and even light scarves. For the winter, we kept ourselves warm with cowboy-style boots, cardigan sweaters, warm coats, and scarves.

This year most of us upgraded our phones to the new Blackberry, so we could update our brand new Twitter accounts. Maybe someone's Twitter status is how we found out about Kanye West's outburst against Taylor Swift at the VMA's. It was also the year the swine flu epidemic swept the nation, leaving even Delta State's campus with a large percentage of students ill. Going green became the cool thing to do, and companies began making recycled alternatives for almost everything. Obama took office, becoming our first African American president. Last, but certainly not least — our country mourned the loss of its King of Pop, Michael Jackson. So, when we weren't on a boat or obsessing that someone belonged with us, we were having quite an eventful year.

Mary Swatley and Tyler Russell are trendy with Mary wearing a partly plaid dress and Tyler sporting a scarf.

Michael Jackson will always be remembered for his dance moves and the King of Pop. Jackson was only 50 years old when he passed away.

Students spend many hours chatting, adding photos, and connecting with old friends on Facebook and Twitter.

The Cleveland Community

[by Courtney Smith]

The town of Cleveland, MS, has come a long way since its founding in 1869. Best known as the home of the DSU Fighting Okra and the Blues, it was recently recognized as one of the "100 Best Small Towns of America." To an outsider passing through, the area might appear to be just another old town on a flat Delta landscape. However, take a detour down Sharpe Street past rows of shops and restaurants, or attend one of the local festivals, and you will see where it got its title as the "Cultural Capital of the Delta."

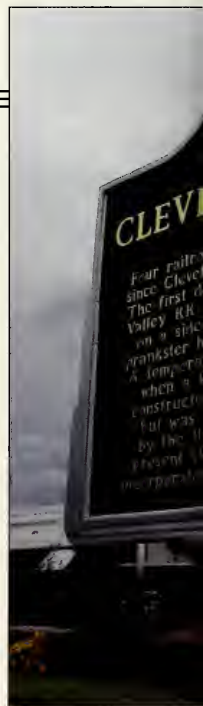

Cleveland's biggest annual event is the Crosstie and Jazz Festival. This happens every year under the oaks of the Bolivar County Courthouse. There, all the local artists display their paintings, sculptures, pottery, handmade furniture, jewelry, etc. All the while, local entertainment plays in the background.

Another Cleveland tradition is the Italian Festival. Gary Gainspoletti, co-chair of the Italian Festival, says that, "The Mississippi Delta has such a rich Italian heritage, we are really inspired to celebrate that great tradition." Activities such as cooking lessons, grape stomping, and a spaghetti gravy contest are held.

In addition to festivals, Cleveland also offers a variety of unique restaurants and shops to check out. Whether you are in the mood for a grilled chicken salad, a chicken panini, or some homemade fried chicken, Cleveland has it all. Stroll up the brick-paved sidewalks to see the renovated warehouses and antique buildings made into restaurants, small cafés, and authentic downtown diners.

However, we cannot forget the true history of Cleveland -- the Blues, formed along 'ol Highway 61. Still very present in the town today, you will find it at a number of the local hangouts. Overall, the town has kept the music alive and even incorporated an artsy feel. With its unique restaurants, home-cooking, fun festivals, friendly folks, safe atmosphere, and musical roots, we can certainly see how it would have developed the name, "Cultural Capital of the Delta."

Sharpe Avenue is one of the main streets in downtown Cleveland, hosting various shops.

The clock is in a central area downtown. It sits next to The Depot near the intersection of Court Street and Sharpe Avenue.

Ten Years Back

[by Brittany Davis]

Over the past 10 years, Delta State has changed significantly, and mostly for the better. Some of these changes are apparent, while others may not be so obvious. Let's dig into the past to see what some of those changes are.

Ten years ago, the enrollment at the university was 3,430—634 students fewer students than today's enrollment.

An overwhelming majority of the students were from the surrounding Bolivar County and there were little-to-no students from states in the Midwest.

There were residence halls that many students today would be unfamiliar with, such as Woolfolk, Stadium, Bond-Carpenter and Whittington-Williams. New Men's Residence Hall didn't even exist yet.

In 1999, Mississippi dorm residents paid an average of $5,326 in tuition and fees. A transcript was only $4, compared to today's $7. In the spring of 2000, 597 students graduated with undergraduate degrees from Delta State.

Yet, the best way to find compare Delta State ten years ago is to ask someone who was there. According to Dr. Kent Wyatt, former president of the University, the biggest change at Delta State is the budget cuts. He explains, "We used to say that state institutes are state supported; now they are just state assisted." Wyatt says the percentage of the cost of going to school has declined significantly since he retired ten years ago. "Students today are paying more for their education," he says.

Wyatt also notes academic changes. According to Wyatt, "A major growth area has been online education." He says President Hilbert has taken a leadership role in seeing the online education expand. Wyatt says he has seen the School of Nursing, as well as the Commercial Aviation program, grow significantly.

Technologically, he also notes the expansion in computers. "Ten years ago, we didn't have all the computers present we have now. That's a tremendous change," he says.

That brings to topic the 1999 website. Compared with today's advances, the Delta State website ten years ago is ancient. It had very few pictures, no creativity and was very basic. Maybe it was advanced for its time, but just looking at it can easily gives you a headache. You can look through the entire website in five minutes flat—no joke.

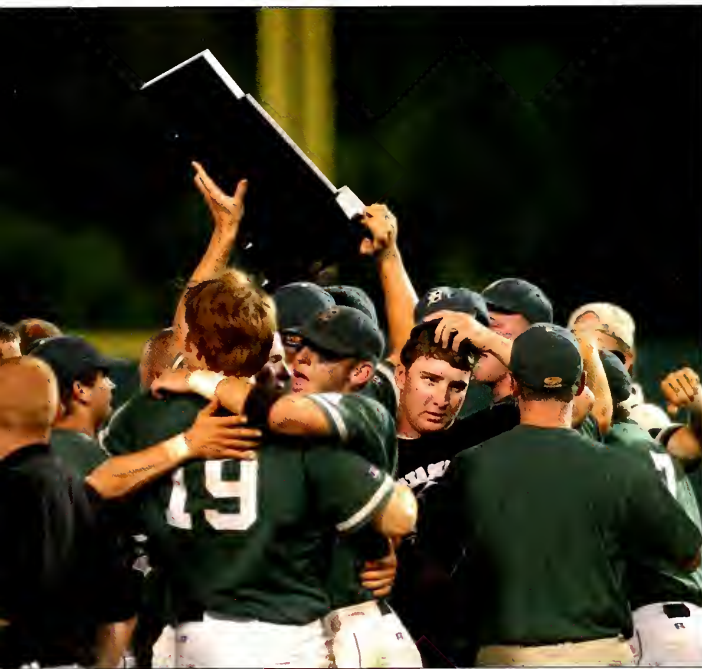

According to Wyatt, facilities at Delta State have also improved. He says the Delta Music Institute has been a great new addition, as well as the Baioni Conference Center in Broom, and of course, Kent Wyatt Hall.

Wyatt says there have been many changes in the athletic program also. He's seen the men and women's soccer programs added and many other sports available to women that weren't previously offered. He also notes that athletics has been highly successful over the last ten years, with national championships in football and baseball. "We previously tried to compete only within our conference, now we compete for the national championships," he says.

Wyatt says many faculty members from his time as president have retired. "They were responsible for the academic quality Delta State is know for, but have been replaced with other outstanding faculty members," he says.

According to Wyatt, one thing that hasn't changed is the quality of education offered at Delta State. "That's the reason, ten years later, we continue to attract good students."

Healthy Campus & Community Initiative

[by Claire Gare]

Today's society is filled with many factors that can contribute to an unhealthy lifestyle. Delta State is starting a program called Healthy Campus/Community Initiative, led by Delta State's College of Education. This pilot program is funded through a $700,000 grant by Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Mississippi Foundation. Delta State is taking on this challenge to help the program get started and to eventually get the program on all college campuses and communities statewide. John Hilpert, DSU President says, "This is an exciting opportunity for Delta State and Cleveland, and we believe we will make a difference in the lives of the people who study, work, and live here." Healthy Campus is an amazing way to showcase Delta State's true heart and to show people statewide that our school is not one to overlook. The grant has four major objectives: to provide for the infusion of health curricula in pre-service teacher and leadership programs, as well as health related components in the school district curriculum; to provide a comprehensive Delta State Health and Wellness Center; to establish a healthy campus/P-12 environment; and to provide ongoing health information, screenings, and educational venues for the purpose of creating a healthy campus culture. This program has already broken down barriers for students, faculty, and community members, allowing them the chance to become healthier. There are several ways to get involved with this program: take a fitness class, get nutritional counseling, play intramurals, or take an adventure with the Outdoor Program. Already, there are 407 members enrolled in the DSU Health Challenge. Many are enrolled in classes such as Cardio Funk, Yoga, Extreme Fitness, and Beginning Fitness. This program also offers the opportunity for a personal training program to be written. The only way to get a healthy campus and community and to make this program excel is to get involved and stay active. Several organizations on campus have already joined the challenge and are looking for ways to better our campus, not just to be physically healthy but to have an overall health. The program identifies ten health indicators: physical activity, overweight and obesity, tobacco use, substance abuse, responsible sexual behavior, mental health, injury and violence, environmental quality, immunization, and access to health care. Through the money allotted to this program, Delta State aspires to meet every need to make sure everyone in the Cleveland community is knowledgeable on all ten of these areas.

Academics

[College of Business]

[by Claire Gore]

The College of Business offers students not only business classes, but a great foreknowledge for the future. The College of Business offers classes ranging from Accounting and Finance to Management and Marketing, along with other classes to develop the students' confidence in their fields of choice. The College of Business's Division of Management, Marketing, and Business Administration annually hosts the International Business Symposium sponsored by David and Sherry Abney to inform students how to plan their futures after college. A recent theme of the Symposium was "Roadmap to Your Success" with panel members from UPS and many other industries. Another facet of the College of Business is the division of Commercial Aviation. Two factors make up the Commercial Aviation program: flight training and a college degree. Students that enroll in this field of study will get college credit hours as well as flight certificates and ratings. Julie Clark is the new Chair and Associate Professor of Commercial Aviation. She, along with the rest of the staff in this division, offers flight students classes that enhance flight-oriented training, including classes in engine operations, human factors, and aviation management, allowing for a comprehensive professional training for pilots.

[Division of Languages & Literature]

[by Courtney Smith]

The Division of Languages and Literature stands out on Delta State's campus. The accomplished faculty has collectively won over a dozen awards for outstanding teaching, written several books, and even established a Writing Center for students across campus. Struggling students can receive a helping hand on writing assignments at any stage of the process. The department also sponsors Delta State's literary journal, the Confabulate. Here, many English majors, as well as other majors, can submit their work for publication. Students can also submit their work to the many other writing contests the department hosts for cash prizes, publication, and scholarships. With the help of a notable faculty, the Division of Languages and Literature provides for a wonderful place to learn.

[School of Nursing]

By Claire Girel

Delta State's School of Nursing is renowned for being one of the best nursing programs in the state. In April 2006, the School of Nursing was renamed due to the generous financial support of Robert E. Smith, a retired Delta farmer. The school now proudly bears the name Robert E. Smith School of Nursing. Through his vast gift, he allowed for seven scholarships for the School of Nursing's extensive programs that enable students to become some of the best nurses working today. The program offers many degrees such as a Bachelor of Science in Nursing or a Masters of Science in Nursing, which can include Nurse Administration, Nurse Education, or Nurse Practitioner.

[College of Education]

[by Katelyn Hulett and Claire Gere]

The College of Education is one of Delta State's most renowned colleges. This college houses several divisions such as Family Consumer Sciences and Teacher Education. One of the most popular fields in this college is Elementary Education, and Delta State's program is known as one of the best in the south. The Dean states, "We believe that you will find evidence of a commitment to a caring environment for our students and an emphasis on quality education that fully prepares our graduates for their chosen professions." The College of Education is sponsoring one of the best movements since the school began the Healthy Campus initiative, showing that this college cares for all students on campus and not just the ones enrolled in their curriculum. One of the main goals of this college is to ensure all students and faculty members are provided with a positive and stimulating work environment to help produce the quality work that is expected of everyone at Delta State.

[Delta Music Institute]

[by Katelyn Hulett & Claire Gore]

The DMI's main goal is to provide the students with a thorough education in every aspect of the entertainment industry. This center was started in 2003 by a generous donation from Fred Carl of the Viking Range Corporation. In 2009, the state of the art recording studios opened consisting of three different studios and a 15 station digital audio computer lab where students learn to create, edit, and mix their own audio. Classes in the DMI program will remind students of the rich musical heritage that inhabits the Delta and the graduates will take pieces of what they have learned, their own personal talent, and then create the next generation of Mississippi music. DMI has two bands that show the greatness coming from their program Delta Rock and Old Skool Revue. One of these bands, Old Skool Revue, did a weekend tour of performances and promoted the DMI program on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. DMI has helped many students on their way to become the artists they want to be, one being Liz Davis. Liz won the nitty gritty's Stormmaker competition where she signed with Bad Boy Records. Another network of DMI is Grammy U which is designed to enhance students' current academic curriculum with access to recording industry professionals to give an "out of classroom" perspective on the recording industry. This program has many facets for students to get involved and to develop their talents more.

Women's Basketball

The 12th ranked Delta State University women's basketball team was voted to finish atop the Gulf South Conference for the 2008-09 seasons by the league coaches in the pre-season poll. The Lady Statesmen, 33-1 last season and winners of three consecutive GSC titles, were voted for the fourth straight year to take home the crown despite the loss of four mainstay starters. Delta State received nine of a possible 15 votes for the overall champion; five were first place votes, the most of any school in the West Division. With a record of 10-5 overall and 0-0 GSC, the Lady Statesmen began the quest for their fourth-straight Gulf South Conference title January 10 against the Lady Tigers (10-3) of Ouachita Baptist University. The Lady Statesmen, forming one of the nation's toughest defenses, defeated OBU Lady Tigers in a strong match up with 65-60 as the final. The victory was the 28th straight for the Lady Statesmen at home, dating back to the 2005-2006 season, improving to 11-5 overall and 1-0 in the GSC. Once again the Lady Statesmen dominated in a 59-45 victory over Arkansas-Monticello January 15. The win extended their home winning streak to 29 games, and 26 consecutive victories in Gulf South Conference. Delta State improved to 12-5 and 2-0 in GSC and are pursuing further wins, a fourth straight GSC title, and the coveted National Championship.

Men's Basketball

Ending their 2007-2008 season with a win over Henderson State and a record of 14-2 overall and 8-6 in the Gulf South Conference, the Statesmen are determined to make the 2008-2009 season a success. Starting off the season right with a strong record of 10-3, the Statesmen began GSC play in January. In the 36th all-time meeting, the Statesmen emerged with a win over Ouachita Baptist at home. Despite a strong battle in the second half, the Statesmen failed to secure a win against their next opponent, the University of Arkansas-Monticello Boll Weevils. 11-4 in the season and 1-1 in GSC, the Statesmen are currently on their quest for a seventh GSC championship.

Golf

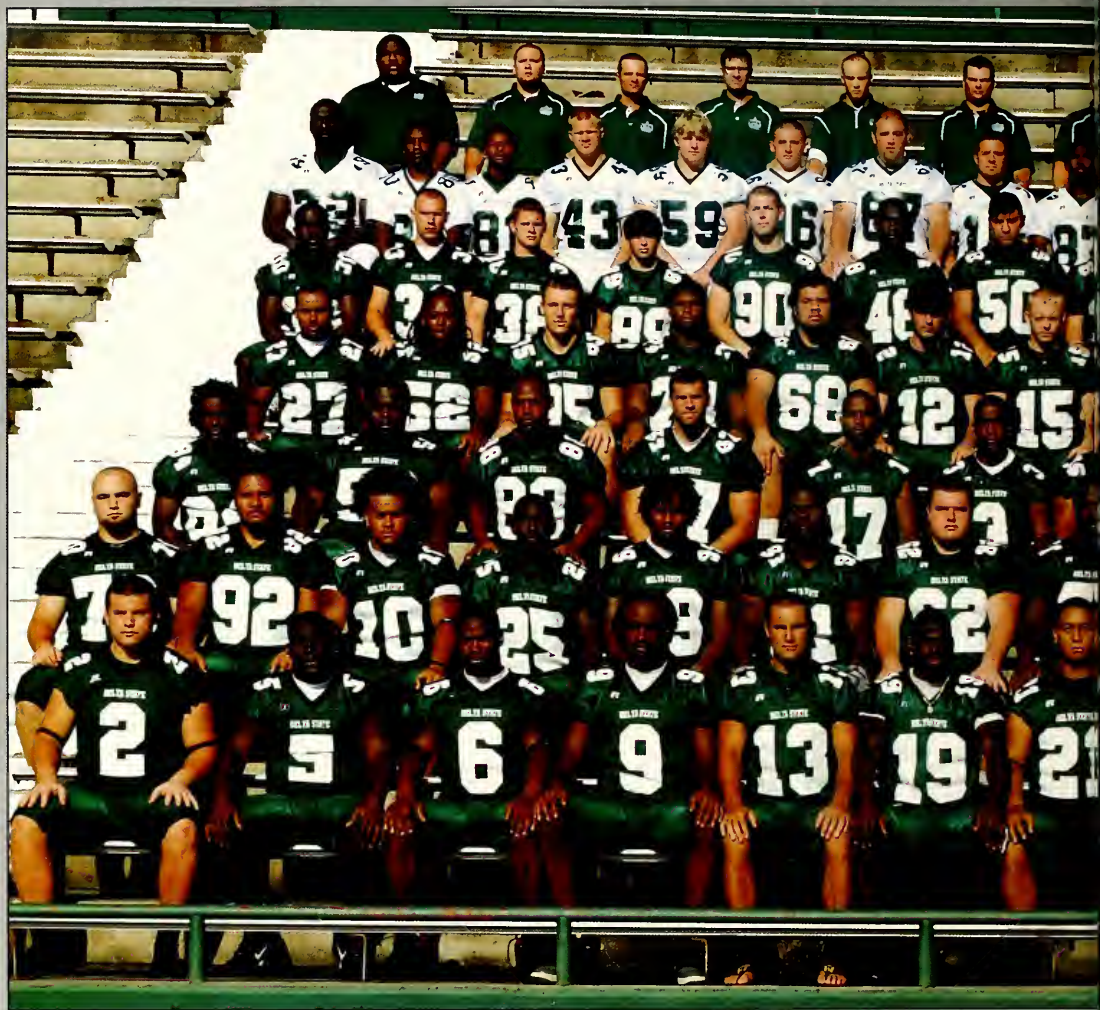

The Statesmen golf team had a successful 2009 campaign, as they finished the season in fifth place at the 2009 Gulf South Conference Championship. Senior Brandon Hartzell and Chase Smith both finished in fourth place at the event. The Statesmen also took first place at the Doyle Wallace Classic in Hot Springs, Ark. Hartzell claimed the individual title and all five Statesmen finished in the top five in the event. Hartzell competed as an individual in the 2009 NCAA South Regional Tournament where he contended for the lead for most of the event.

Swimming & Diving

After an intense year of competitive swimming and diving, the Delta State Swimming and Diving Team finished their season off with a bang. With a second place finish at the 2009, 20th Annual New South Intercollegiate Swim Conference Championships held at Delta State's Aquatics Center, the Swimming and Diving Team sent a total of 12 swimmers to compete in Houston, Texas, for the NCAA Division II Swimming and Diving Championships. The Lady Statesmen finished 13th, while the Aqua Statesmen finished 16th. Among the swimmers and divers who represented Delta State were Wolfgang Mairigner, who was named the top male swimmer of the championships held at Delta State; Hannah Willis, who finished second place in the 200 backstroke; Mary Katherine Waddell, who finished third place in 100 freestyle; Samantha Fajardo, who finished fifth in the 100 freestyle; Amanda Guldry, who finished first in the 200 butterfly; Waldemar Juschin, who finished top three in 200 breaststroke; Ben Rayner, who finished fifth in 200 breaststroke; Alex Lorenez, who finished third in 200 butterfly; and the men's 400 freestyle relay team—Alex Barillas, Roman Serado, Cameron Weidele, and Justin Ingvalstad— who finished second.

[Football]

The Delta State University Statesmen Football team started the 2009 season ranked 3rd in the Gulf-South Conference, after finishing a 2008 campaign with a record of 10-2 and finished in the Quarterfinals of the NCAA Division II playoffs. Led by two-time Gulf South Conference Head Coach of the year, Ron Roberts, the Statesmen returned with 17 starters and 40 letter-winners from last season's squad. Delta State excelled in both rushing and receiving in front of an enthusiastic opening-day home crowd at Delta State's annual Pig Pickin' game as the Statesmen rolled past Harding 48-10. Delta State (2-1), ranked No. 9 in the NCAA's Division II, improved to 1-0 in Gulf South Conference play. With the conference-opening win, the Statesmen recorded their 24th consecutive GSC win. The Statesmen also improved to 18-6-1 all-time on Pig Pickin' Weekend. With little more than pride at stake and a desire to end the season on a winning note, the Delta Statesmen concluded the 2009 football season with a convincing 48-7 win over West Georgia at home. The Statesmen (5-5, 4-4 Gulf South Conference) finished the regular season unbeaten at Parker Field at McCool Stadium for the third consecutive year.

Swimming & Diving

As the 21st Annual NSISC Championships on February 13, 2010 came to a close for the Delta State University Swimming and Diving Team, the Statesmen walked away in third place (664 points) out of six teams, and the Lady Statesmen brought home second place (753.5 points) out of five teams. Head Coach Brian Hein's leadership was undeniable as he conditioned and guided the team through a rigorous season. This season's two teams consisted of 20 Lady Statesmen and 30 Statesmen. Both teams have repeatedly set high team and personal records in the fall and spring meets.

In the annual Christmas Invitational held in the DSU Aquatics Center, the Statesmen and Lady Statesmen finished fourth overall but made extraordinary marks in the history books. By the end of the Tunica Invitational, DSU wrapped up second place, showing strong signs of promise in the future as many athletes timed-out on high notes.

With the NCAA Division II Championships right around the corner, Delta State University Swimming and Diving Program is preparing to go all-out and get even better for the upcoming season in the New South Intercollegiate Swim Conference.

[Men's Basketball]

The Delta State men's basketball team returned to its rightful place among the Gulf South Conference's and South Region's elite last season. After finishing the season 21-9 and advancing the South Regional tournament, the Statesmen are aiming for a second extended postseason in 2009-2010. The Delta State men's basketball team was one of two Gulf South Conference squads named to the NCAA Division II Preseason Top 25 by the Division II Bulletin. The No. 21-ranked Statesmen finished 21-9 and returned to the postseason after a one-year absence in 2008-2009, where they fell to fellow GSC squad Christian Brothers in the South Region tournament. While they find themselves ranked in the Top 25 in two polls (No. 21 – Division II Bulletin; No. 23 – National Association of Basketball Coaches), the Delta State Statesmen are predicted to win the Gulf South Conference's West Division men's basketball title in 2009-2010 according to a poll of the league's coaches. The Statesmen will rely heavily on returning senior point guard Chad Atkins to lead the Statesmen back to the NCAA South Regional tournament. Atkins (6-2, Madison, Miss.) was named to the All-GSC West Division and DakTronics All-South Region first teams last season.

So far in the 2009-2010 season, the Lady Statesmen have managed to rack up some truly jaw-dropping records. On February 12, 2010 the team achieved 46 straight wins while at home here at Walter-Sillers Coliseum. The home and away game streak is currently resting at a solid 14, one game up from last years. Both players' numbers will continue to climb with the remaining games and tournaments.

The Lady Statesmen's still-going season record currently stands at 17-2 overall with 6-2 Gulf South Conference; and in the NCAA II South Region Poll, the team ranked as No. 3 to go on in the best 8 teams tournament.

The Statesmen took a hit in their first game against Belhaven College, losing 1-7. But they did not let that keep them down, for in their next game they pounded in 10 runs, only to fall short one point in a 10-11 to North Georgia.

From there on a fire started in the team and came out full force, doubling their opponents score for the next two games. The Statesmen played hard for their next series of games taking in more wins and a few losses, till they faced the University of North Alabama, grasping victory 7-5. This marked the beginning of a 10 game winning streak.

The men of green-and-white never lost their momentum taking wins nearly every game for the rest of the season.

In the first set of the double header, the Lady Statesmen swept the Lady Generals in a shut-out 5-0. In the rematch though, LSU-Alexandria managed to squeeze in two runs, but the Lady Statesmen still won 3-2.

As the season went on into the UAM Tournament, the Lady Statesmen dominated, defeating every team except for their very first match. The UAH Tournament also proved to be shining on DSU, as the team defeated four out or six of the teams.

Once the GSC Crossover started though, trouble set in for the Lady Statesmen as they met five defeats before picking on a win on the last game of the Crossover.

The Broom, our yearbook, also known as an annual, is the book to record, highlight, and commemorate the preceding year of school at Delta State University. I prefer to view the yearbook as a history book or a snapshot of reflections over the past year. The Broom is the only official printed archive of the school's history. It represents more than just an album of photographs and articles of prior events; it is a priceless publication that all DSU students and alumni may cherish. Use this yearbook as a tribute to where you have been and where you are headed in life.

I would like to take this time to thank several people that helped with this year's annual. Our SGA President Taylor Miller and the SGA for their support in more ways than one—this book would not be here without their determination and financial support; Keith Fulcher and the Delta State Alumni Foundation for their generous donation; my advisor, Bill Moses, thank you for being my mentor and right hand man, this yearbook would not be possible without you. Many thanks go out to Mercedes Patterson for being my assistant editor and Margo Baker for being a wonderful copy editor. I would like to especially thank Claire Gore and Courtney Smith with putting up with me and for their countless hard work. Also, I would like to thank Doug Pinkerton, Todd Davis, and Angela Waller for their photography. And last but not least the entire staff for their time and talent.
